

APPENDIX A

3.3.9 Other noise issues (please describe below)

Anti-social driving from members of the public around the city at night time. Poor behavior from taxi drivers during busy times, sounding horns etc.
Bear in mind the impacts aren't just felt within the zone but approaches to it too. I live in Kingsdown and we are plagued by noisy, early morning returnees from the clubs. Music from Lakota's outside events can be heard on Kingsdown Parade, sometimes through double glazing.
Noise from nightclubs which go onto the early hours.
I live outside the zone and would like it extended to Gloucester Road. I am frequently kept awake by noise from people shouting, car stereos, glass bins being emptied and rubbish collections before 6am. We also have a littering problem despite a multitude of bins.
Mororbike engines
There is a lot more noise from cars that have been modified to cause 'backfiring' and excessive exhaust noises from Stokes Croft area particularly at night. There is now a day and night time nuisance, due to the constant stream of motor cycle delivery riders using Nine Tree Hill as an illegal short cut where the access to Fremantle Square is closed off to all motor vehicles.
People move into a city centre or into areas (during covid also) and were not aware of the noise that comes with living in the city centre. Without night clubs and NTE venues Bristol will lose its identity. This is already happening - Bristol used to be the capital of music - it is no longer. It seems to have been forgotten that city centres are busy places and are bound to be noisy! What do you expect if you are moving to a central city? I find it sad that Bristol is deteriorating in terms of both retail and NTE. You only have to look at Leeds and Liverpool to see how much they are thriving as cities. The noise is only a problem when those living in those areas complain. If you are moving into the city centre do you really expect it to be quiet? It seems regulations are now going too far and people can no longer enjoy themselves in the city.
Boy racers with loud exhaust
Yes
For me, the noise from ventilation plants on the tops of neighbouring buildings has also been an issue.
Drunk people late at night making g noise that disturbs sleeping residents including children
Some of the busses have loud engines
Occasional noise from St George's Churchyard Noise from loud music in the docks coming up the hill. Repeated noise from people going on Brandon Hill after visiting clubs and pubs.
So many licenced and unlicensed outdoor music venues popped up in last few yrs. particularly outside this CIA. The centre is spreading out across st Philips and up the feeder. The cia needs to be expanded to address this. Even offices in at Philips now have outdoor seating and alcohol licences opposite residential areas causing considerable nuisance out of office hours. Such licences need to be curtailed to prevent antisocial behaviour.
General vandalism and fighting noise as well
Trade bins being emptied are not included above and are a real nuisance as the service providers really dont care when they collect. Commercial deliveries of foods and drink to premisise again some service providers really dont care what time they deliver.
Walking through the city centre and surrounding area (within and without the map boundary) can be very intimidating. Large groups of people gather, shout, barge past you - the older you are the more invisible. We often comment on the noise of music on the street and with the cumulative impacts from multiple businesses the cacophony just contributes to the feeling of being unsafe. Hearing issues (25% of people in the UK are hearing impaired according to the RNID) mean that it can be more intimidating and disorientating for people with some hearing problems. E.g. if you wear hearing aids directional hearing is not great. I have no idea why you allow music to spill out from premises - or indeed music to be played at literally ear damaging levels which would be a breach of H&S at Work Act I suspect. The issue of noise in residential areas isn't just people passing through, but people arriving home late following attendance at a late night venue - taxi doors slamming, as well as loud conversations. Also if eateries are able to sell deliveries late at night by e.g. Deliveroo and their ilk, then this also means that residential areas outside the boundary will have the noise of these vehicles, them talking on their mobile phones etc.

The city centre has experienced significant gentrification over the last decade. It's becoming more and more residential. Existing late-night establishments shouldn't be impacted by this; however, if you remove the CIA new nightclubs will attempt to open adjacent to or below residential communities and they will kick-off about it.

Through a legal loophole, the venue Tonight Josephine recently did this at 28 Baldwin Street BS1 1NG; it's been a disaster and the business has suffered alongside city dwellers. Keep the CIA as it is.

People congregating in parks after hours, after drinking in local bars and clubs. Montpelier Park has seen a huge increase in anti social behaviors and noise in recent years. Last summer i contacted the Police approximately 15 times in tears after 11pm up to 4am as drunk people were shouting in the park for hours...Its so loud i cannot sleep at night. This happens mid week and weekends. Laccota night club near stokes croft is also ridiculously loud these days you can feel the base in Montpelier. Its also no longer just stokes croft the chaos now goes up to Bishopston. St Andrews park is now full of loud people partying at night.

Fighting and public urination means that I do not visit the area on Friday or Saturday night i.e to go to the theatre, Watershed or restaurants

The main noise issues I would say are the 100's of mopeds and scooters that use the city centre like a race track collecting Just Eat and Deliver orders!

Extractor fans, music from commercial outlets,

The main issue we have on the Gloucester/Cheltenham Road area is when members of the public are sick, litter and pee in the communal bin areas.

General antisocial behaviour as people walk though this area (residential) to get home in the early hours. It is bad enough now with all the protections the CIA provides. Without it, premises are likely to request an expansion of licensing hours and the residents will suffer. The council should remember the city centre is becoming more residential, not less, as shops close and more flats are created.

People shouting, arguing and fighting. People playing loud music and not disbursing

All of the above concerns are exacerbated by drunk behaviour which occurs regularly at weekends but also during the week and this needs to be recognised

Noise from 'booze cruises' and people congregating on harbour pontoons

Noise and nuisance from people spilling onto residential areas after late night drinking

Music at events, car shows in the amphitheater, music and shouting from neighbours at unsocial hours.

Around the area of my residence there are frequent arguments that can lead to altercations. This happens every night during the weekend. Couples falling out and young women crying after arguments with their partners that decide to sit and sort it out rather than go home. The only time it's quiet is when it's raining.

Other open air events

Bars late night opening and drinking on streets late night disturbing residents can't sleep

Cars/Traffic

High powered motor cycles and cars careering around harbourside , mostly in evenings to after midnight.
People being loud in quieter streets slightly away from licenced premises - might be on the way home or maybe they're just drinking there I don't know. Can't sleep sometimes at night
Drunken brawls and fighting disgraceful behaviour from Stag and Hen parties is getting significantly worse
People who have been drinking being loud in the street.
After 11pm, antisocial behavior especially bars and pubs
Drunken noise and car engines are a major problem
We regularly get drunk people taking the scenic route home from the bars around Millenium Square and walking through the private gardens of the Crescent and Villa buildings and along the waterfront at Hannover Quay. They can be very loud in the early hours of the morning.
General drunken related behaviour at certain times/hours
Cats racing up and down Whiteladies Road late at night
It seems to me that choosing to live in a City centre and especially around Public Houses and other licenced venues is a choice, and one that means that you have a tacit agreement with those venues that having chosen to live amongst them, that you accept a certain amount of noise from their operation. The recent habit of Councils legislating in favour of the resident who has voluntarily moved into an area with a venue that they later complain about is a nonsense. In my last property we backed onto an airfield, one that had been there for at least 60 years before we moved into that house. One day a neighbour came around canvassing signatures to get the local council to reduce the number of aircraft using the airfield, and to reduce the noise they made. I asked him if he had seen the massive airfield behind his house when he bought it, or if he'd been confused as to its purpose and the likelihood of aircraft passing overhead... I refused to sign obviously, because I was and he should have been mindful of the chance of aircraft flying over a house next to an airfield and if he wanted to avoid that the solution would have been not to move in next to an airfield, rather than asking the airfield to change for his requirements once he'd moved in next door.
Bristol's is well known for its fantastic night time economy, many people choose to live in the city due to this factor. It should expected that with a thriving night-time economy comes a reasonable amount of noise. There needs to be agreement amongst residents and business owners that outside spaces are useable until a reasonable hour and that licenses should support this activity. There will be increasing numbers of residents with the CIA area over the coming years and the night time economy should be protected as plans and developments progress.
Broken bottles and cars arriving and leaving venues
A large number of university students in a small area; some students living in private accommodation have loud outdoor gatherings late at night (until 2-3 AM) during the middle of the week as well as on weekends.

3.4.8 Other anti-social behaviour (please describe below)

THERE IS A HOMELESS PROBLEM IN BRISTOL AND THIS INTERACTS AT TIMES IN A NEGATIVE WAY WITH THE HOSPITALITY INDUSTRY. INCREASED FUNDING TO RESOLVE HOMELESSNESS WOULD NEGATE THE EFFECT.
The mess: littering
Public urinating,drug use/dealing,begging,street robbery and theft from cars
I live outside the zone and would like it extended to Gloucester Road. People - men - pee in doorways and in the street.
People urinating in gardens

Revellers passing through our neighbourhood in groups who scream and shout and are often drunk at night time, when local residents are trying to sleep or are woken by the loud noises created by these groups who also often deposit empty bottles and cans on the streets and recreation park areas. The increase in mindless graffiti and tagging also occurs during the night time hours and has an adverse impact on our area. These late night groups of people have no respect for the residents or families living in the area.

We are in a city. There is bound to be ASB. What do you mean in terms of a problem. There is a problem with ASB nationally! Its a culture problem fuelled by the underspend towards public services. You only have to look to the wider world such as France to see what problems are on the way. Corners and fears are all about perception rather than what is actually happening. What is reported and what actually happens are two different things.

Tagging is rife only because there are no repercussions for doing so. But this goes back to the other problem that there are lack of police due to cuts in funding from central government. It goes full circle!

Broken glass from alcohol bottles being dropped/ thrown

Littering and urinating

The CIA covers a very large area so it is difficult to ask this question about such a large area. Also - you do not specify what time of day or night. As this is about licensed premises I will presume you mean at night time. For example, I feel safer walking around Stokes Croft at night than I do walking through Broadmead or the Harbourside and this is because of the types of anti-social behaviour I have witnessed or encountered in those areas. Any fears I have about walking in the city centre at night time tends to relate to: large groups of (usually inebriated men & street homeless people. So I simply avoid those areas at night time.

I fear drunken people causing damage to property and life as well as being hit by cars or doing silly things spray painting on walls in the area

Illegal activities and associated criminal impact that's not being managed or reduced by the police or authorities. Major costs to the local businesses to replace and repair damages by illegal activities.

the fact that the funding is not there for so many society supporting groups and we see homelessness increasing in this area. thats the real issue, not the noise. The fact that bristol has become so overcrowded and now impossible for low paid renters has led to alot of pople on the streets with drug issues, in my opinion

The amount of broken glass, nitrous oxide cannisters and other items that can puncture bicycle, mobility scooter and wheelchair tyres - and the injury they can cause to those who fall or walk barefoot, due to inebriation etc.

Please don't under-estimate the impact of being stranded because your mobility equipment has a puncture, or your bicycle [when you have limited mobility]. This is very antisocial behaviour impacting other people's lives. It also puts cyclists at risk as they have to push their bikes home.

I am approached by the homeless population at least twice in average during one walk through town.

Graffiti is a huge problem and very demoralising. It says to us all: "the law no longer rules here; we do." It happens at night and therefore might be associated with drink.

There are hideous issues with begging across the cia now. This has become significantly worse since covid. It is impossible to go out for a walk with out being accosted by a beggar or some other sort of intimidating unkempt person. It's really soul destroying to see the the poverty affecting people in this way causing threatening and intimidating begging. There are even beggars in the traffic now on temple way and other areas.

pick pocketing / theft not covered above and I think that is a large problem

Crowding on pavements and barging people because there is no consideration for others as well as yelling and boorish behaviour is very common place. I am an older female who would feel concerned about being alone in the city centre late at night and definitely wouldn't want to be alone in the early hours of the morning. The way people dress - the so called "stag and hen" parties sometimes have very offensive costumes, t-shirt slogans, etc but we have no recourse to prevent having to see them because there is no restrictions.

People smoke below residential apartments. It's 2023 and this conduct is socially gross. Also, some people from outside of Bristol visit for the sole purpose of getting extremely drunk on Saturdays. Hen and Stag parties are a major cause of anti-social behavior.

Montpelier park on St Andrews road has people drinking and swearing in close proximity to children in the play area. I asked someone to keep it down once at midnight and he threatened to smash my face in. I live here !! These people just pass through to party.

travel on public transport can sometimes be unpleasant

The main issues in the city centre are the gangs that hang around the city centre beating people up and robbing them like the Somali gangs that were causing loads of problems in the Broad Quay area.

Large groups gathered on pavements preventing av way past, often all smoking.

Shouting and swearing, also singing loudly in the early hours. Violent arguments sometimes. Litter and vandalism.

Public urination/defecation, vomit, damage to residential flats, electric bikes being driven at speed through pedestrain areas.

Late night/ early morning drunken behaviours including people vomiting.

Peeing outside buildings!!!

Public urination Littering of 'fast food' containers

Urination in the building entrance doorway, begging outside shops

I have had my car vandalised in an act of rage by a young man that had an argument with his girlfriend. In anger he turned to my car and smashed the wing mirrors to the value of £250. This was mid afternoon (Sat) and the Police caught him but I haven't been re-imbursed.

homeless people and begging, they were housed during covid and should have the same opportunities. Some are obviously in a gang and likely being exploited.

Public urinating due to lack of toilet facilities

Late night bars drinking on streets in residential areas. Late night bars shouldn't be in these areas drunkenness

Frequent public urination in my area (The Crescent)

Littering, vomiting, urinating in the common areas of our neighbouring properties - all of which, we as leaseholders, have to pay to clean up.

So many trashy people under the influence being loud and aggressive in the city centre. However, this is all throughout the day, not only at night. I've never seen the police do anything about it.

Private enforcers are often racist and can be part of the problem. A properly trained and highly visible police presence is needed.

Cyclists on Bristol Bath Bike Path can be threatened by yobs

I don't think many children are around at night when it's more of a problem. The big issue for me is the number of people who now live near the city centre who are subjected to high levels of noise after people have been drinking. A friend lives in a flat near Moon St. and feels quite threatened by noisy groups at night.

Just walk through the centre at 01.00 on a Sunday morning and tell me if you feel safe happy or proud of Bristol

There's a gradient of anti-social behaviour that starts out fairly low-key on Millenium Promenade where the establishments (BrewDog, Lane 7) have good security and the clientele are more civilised. As you get closer to Broad Key, the atmosphere gets more threatening & scary, especially if you walk past The Watershed around midnight when BSB etc have long lines of drunk people in queues waiting to get in. Their security people could do a lot more to make people feel safe.

Litter, waste is always worse at weekends, debris in streets etc.

Bristol is, as a City and especially the Centre, is the place in which I have felt the safest of anywhere I have lived (including some small towns in very wealthy areas). I don't see that there is a particular problem with any of these things in the City centre.

The BID has worked in partnership with many city centre stakeholders to ensure that a night out in the city can be enjoyed safely. This partnership working demonstrates more effective ways to manage/ reduce ASB and improve safety at night.

Excessive litter, with no care for the local community and there is constantly vomit on sidewalks.

3.5.8 Other litter issues (please describe below)

IN THIS DAY AND AGE AND IN A SUPPOSED 'GREEN CITY' RECYLING SHOULD BE MORE OF A PRIORITY.

Poor maintenance of the public realm by the council.

Bear in mind the impacts are felt outside the zone on approaches to it. Also, the problems you describe aren't just limited to the city centre. A classic example is Kingsdown Vaults since it changed ownership and management.

Lack of night time litter sweeping . No recognition of litter on routes home especially for students.

I live outside the zone and would like it extended to Gloucester Road. There are many bins but lots of litter because there are no sanctions it seems for dropping bottles, Miss Millie's takeaway rubbish, cans, feet from a bin.

Children dropping litter after school

Packaging from fast food outlets is a massive issue in and around the Stokes Croft area and beyond. This has also led to a noticeable increase in the local population of Gulls and Crows now attracted to waste food containers that are strewn across the area together with rats attracted by the food and waste from the overflowing commercial bins.

Education around reporting a bin that is full is needed. Litter in the city is a big problem. Melbourne (although different altogether) is pristine in comparison. People need to take more responsibility for their litter.

Broken glass - see above

There's a few aspects to this: 1) many late night food places don't have sufficient storage for large commercial waste bins, so they often have no choice but to have them at the front of the premises. Looks bad, smells bad - especially in summer.

2) there aren't sufficient public bins in the centre in general

3) a lot of fast food and licensed premises don't seem to take pride in the outside of their premises to keep on top of litter. If they did this while they were open and not just at the end it would help to keep things looking better.

4) There more litter & rubbish there is, the more people will leave litter and rubbish. But if it's kept tidy, they are more likely to follow example

Education & pride in keeping the city tidy

Since our bins can no longer be stored on the street, we have sought other means of disposal, which are actually cheaper and easier to manage, also frogmore street is far tidier, there is a desperate need for litter bins on frogmore street

The city isn't cleaned enough!

Public bins are not large enough

Rubbish collections leave debris all over the streets when collecting. This attracts vermin and unnecessary aggravation that's avoidable. It may be a tough job but just a few more seconds and a little care can make a huge difference on the people, the businesses and environment.

Dog litter

The estate (Harbourside) has private cleaning costs which leaseholders pay for yet the external areas are open to the public - indeed they are public thoroughfares - so increased pedestrian traffic means more cleaning charges for leaseholders which hardly seems fair.

The city centre frequently looks a mess, with litter and graffiti tagging. It surely must have an impact on tourism income, and it certainly has negative effects on mental health.

The amount of broken glass, nitrous oxide cannisters and other items that can puncture bicycle, mobility scooter and wheelchair tyres - and the injury they can cause to those who fall or walk barefoot, due to inebriation etc.

Please don't under-estimate the impact of being stranded because your mobility equipment has a puncture, or your bicycle [when you have limited mobility]. It also puts cyclists at risk as they have to push their bikes home.

Response time to clean litter is slow

People eat their takeaways in their cars, parked in residential streets, and then drive off leaving it all in the gutter. They also strew it on Brandon Hill.

Waste management in Bristol is appalling. Bristol council and Bristol waste need to seriously improve their enforcement of appropriate waste management and improve the amount of public bins around both the city and wider areas. It would help if Bristol waste didn't wilfully fail to collect bins consistently. Ombudsman has decided against Bristol waste on more than one occasion on our block alone for failure to collect waste or implement proper systems to monitor waste collections. Cutting the street teams as was suggested recently will be a disaster.

Commercial bins outside premises takes up pavement space and they look pretty grotty. Keeping the centre litter free supports good tourism and mostly it's good, the big litterbins at College Green seem to be emptied more than those on the harbour steps.. the amount of gum on the pavements, walking / cycle paths and how filthy they look are a detriment to the appearance of the CIA in Bristol.

There is a lot of litter left everywhere. It really is unacceptable that the City has to pick up the bill for this as it is not for us to provide and collect litter from commercial premises left by their customers. I also don't think the design of litter bins helps as they are not well shaped for many of the fast food waste. Also this waste - by its very nature - is particularly dirty, vermin attracting, non recyclable, so there is not just a financial cost to the Council tax payer but an environmental cost it what purports to be an environmentally conscious city.

Sadly, Bristol and the rest of the UK have a bad litter problem. Too many people just don't care about dropping their litter on the floor. Some of it comes from people putting their recycling out and not caring it blows away - thinking it's not their problem anymore. More public education stating that is wrong and where necessary more enforcement needs to happen.

Fag-ends and vapes all over the pavements.

Cigarette butts etc

Montpelier park is a constant mess with large amounts of rubbish. People come here to get drunk and take drugs and then just leave mess which your poor rubbish collectors are endlessly trying to keep on top of.

Grease stained pavements as the take away shops do not wash down the pavements. Their customers are the nuisance, they should clear up after them

The biggest problem of litter in the city centre is caused by BCC demanding business get rid of their proper commercial bins and put their rubbish outside in clear plastic bags. This lasts about 5 mins before the bags are ripped open by sea gulls and rubbish is strewn all over the road and pavements. It was much better when businesses had proper bins. The other main cause of rubbish is the mess left by students every change over!

Litter is dropped on surrounding streets as people walk home at the end of the night.

Bins need to be emptied quickly. Weather conditions dictate this. Therefore more flexibility in sunny weather and windy weather.

Street cleaning after Friday and Saturday nights could be better
Described above.
Laughing gas cannisters.
Takeaway boxes and plastic bottles being left everywhere!
Lack of Bristol Waste staff from early evening onwards clearing overflowing/spilling rubbish from bins. Also ,why are convenience stores like Sainsburys on Broad Quay, One Stop Shop in Queen Charlotte Street not forced to have large bins outside at all times ?.....
Litter from fast food establishments strewn, Gulls taking spilled food stuffs. Litter thrown into 'green' spaces and into waterways (harbour)
Police horses leaving excrement all over the roads and pavements without clearing it up Chewing gum.
pavements need clearing and cleaning in early morning.
Litter bins aren't often used. More responsible residents may struggle to find a bin that isn't full.
UK streets are known around the world's developed countries to be disgusting, and indeed it is. Look elsewhere in Europe and after closing, the venue's staff will mop up the streets for, for example, cigarette butts and bottles. Korea has clean streets even in big drinking areas. The aforementioned trashy people, often young, throw stuff on the floor and into the river and do not care. Again, police never do anything about it.
The public need to see the city as a source of pride.
Attract gulls & other noisy, rapacious birds & rats
Litter is one issue vomit and urine and excrement is even worse
Recycling isn't really happening
Fast food outlets should be monitored and made responsible for the waste they create.
The fast food litter is horrible clam shell trays all plastic if we have to have them it must be cardboard
I'm always impressed by how quickly everything gets cleaned up around Broad Quay and Millenium Square but it's appalling how much litter there is in the late evening. Perhaps the establishments could be required to do a better clean-up job at closing time?
The Bristol City Council waste plan that has been implemented in the city centre and presumed to expand across the area is causing additional financial woes on hospitality businesses. There seems to be a huge lack of consultation and those that came up with the idea and/or implemented it did not engage properly with venue owners or managers.
More dog poop on the streets and the city looks generally grubby
Since the introducing of the waste strategy businesses have made considerable efforts to reduce bins on streets and any commercial waste issues.
Commercial properties being made to use bags that get pulled apart by pests. Give them their bins back!

3.9 Do you have any further comments regarding the City Centre CIA? You could include here any suggestions

THE HOSPITALITY SECTOR AND NIGHT TIME ECEONOMY NEEDS MORE SUPPORT FROM BCC AND CENTRAL GOVERNMENT. IF IT WAS EASIER TO SURVIVE THE VENUES WOULD NOT FEEL THE NEED TO GENERATE THE TYPE OF OFFERING THAT RESULTS IN ANTI-SOCIAL BEHAVIOUR.

There is a wide range of new business ideas that could work well to improve the city centre and bring economic prosperity as we see a decline in the traditional high streets. The negative impact of alcohol licensed premises is generally due to poor management and limited enforcement of existing regulations. Preventing new ideas from coming to the city by capping the number of licensed premises as a result of a small number of poor operators is not a positive way to drive change.

Policies that help stop the decline in number of LGBTQ bars, pubs, and nightclubs, and spaces for other minoritised groups.

Policies that support late night zero or low alcohol venues.

Nightclubs in Bristol close very early compared to elsewhere in the country, and far too early to catch the bus to suburbs. This leaves night revellers with little to do until they can get a bus home. Putting them in a vulnerable position

Bear in mind the impacts are felt in the approaches to the CIA. I suggest you extend it to take account of the anti-social behaviour of venues in the 'student areas' of Cotham and Clifton. Life is becoming a misery for permanent residents.

Whilst the CIA is important to protect residents, Bristol is a growing and diverse city and cultural centre, so there needs to be sufficient flexibility in the regulation to enable a wide variety of business to cater to the varied and diverse interests of both Bristol residents and visitors.

Should be expanded along Gloucester Road and cover routes home for revellers

I live outside the zone and would like it extended to Gloucester Road. There are too many pubs and takeaways which create problems, and too little diversity.

It should cover a wider area including Kingsdown

The proliferation of late night bars, clubs and fast food outlets only increases anti-social behaviour and extra work for our police force who we rely on to maintain safer streets.

Bristol City Council should restrict the late opening of all these venues to make the city a more pleasant and enjoyable place to live and for local communities to be proud of.

There is a bigger picture here that needs to be considered.

Creating homes in the city centre is one thing but where are these people to socialise if 'its so noisy' or 'too littered'

I thought we had a NTE Advisor to champion the venues and support the NTE but all I can see is campaigns that could have been created by the police or other organisations anyway?

We need the city to thrive but many venues are being penalised for having tables and chairs or opening too late and making too much noise. How are we going to support the city moving forward where its a place that people want to visit and spend time?

All of the outdoor spaces seem to be getting taken for redevelopment such as where the roller disco currently take place. Also houses are being developed right next to venues then the venues being penalised for being too loud - It makes no sense whatsoever.

I fear for the future of Bristol.

A specification section requiring responsible authorities to go through mediation with applicants/agents, rather than outright representations...

mention of the City centre CIA being at 'saturation point' - and yet lots of pubs, bars, clubs and venues have closed over the last 10 years and not always been replaced by a new licensed premises. suggests there is an issue with the definition of venues here - e.g. a restaurant is a completely different prospect to a late night fast food place.

In my personal experience as a woman who has lived and socialised in Bristol for 18 years and been a regular patron of city centre venues (all kinds) and tend to walk or cycle rather than get taxis - the main issues I have witnessed are

- a) anti-social behaviour from fast food places, where different groups might congregate after venues have closed
- b) major increase in anti-social behaviour in Cabot Circus and Broadmead. Directly related to the huge increase in street homelessness.
- c) venues that don't manage customers well, e.g. allowing them to drink huge volume of alcohol, often via big drink offers/ discounts (I avoid these places entirely - they tend to be concentrated around Harbourside)

d) students moving into or patronising city centre and Stokes Croft much more in the last 8-10 years has increased anti-social behaviour in these areas

e) having more people around late at night is a positive thing overall - it provides a sense of safety. Which is why I have never felt unsafe walking up Stokes croft alone. More venues / establishments = more people around = more safety

Berlin and Madrid have a much better night life than Bristol, due to their different licensing rules. Bristol should learn from their success!

We should encourage night life in the City Centre. I have been frequenting the City Centre for around 18 years and it feels much safer and friendlier now than what it was when I first started coming to the centre for the nightlife. I feel all types should be encouraged to expand our offerings, Bristol has been well known for it's nightlife however it is stagnating and I fear it could stop people from outside of the City being attracted to coming.

There needs to be litter bins for public use on Frogmorer street, there aren't any "Cumulative Impact" - shall we stop being silly? This is a fun city full of young people (with an average age of just 32!) which for the most part is incredibly safe and welcoming. More pubs, more drinking, more dancing, more eating, more events, more FUN!

Just clean it more regularly (seriously, it's filthy, Manchester is cleaner) and make sure it is adequately policed regarding anti-social behaviour (this is necessary around Park Street where all the idiots go out).

Let's lean in to our reputation as a vibrant, punky city where you go for a good time instead of making it boring. If you don't like the noise, don't move to the middle of a city centre.

there is a trend to build many new apartments in the city centre but the vast majority of people who attend the city centre for 'enjoyment' don't live locally but bring their noise, graffiti and mess with them among those who have paid a premium for their city centre homes.

None

invest in and send charities/teams that help the homeless/ drug addicted. its the worst thing about the centre. Stop making the problem apparently to do with businesses by going on about bins and noise. The trouble in the centre is often people drinking on a big night out in groups and causing trouble between venues, so more policing in centre.

Currently there is trend of themed bars opening as family friendly venues (Lane7, Par59 etc) yet the reality is they are bars for young people who create a huge amount of noise in the area. Go past any of these at 5pm at the weekend and you'll see what I mean! Having established a toe hold they then apply to extend their licensing hours and residents have to be ready to mobilise constantly to oppose these plans to protect the residential area. It's hard work and stressful. There needs to be an overview for the area which is enforced much more stringently.

Rarely go to the city centre

Extend it to include areas in close proximity to the boundary

In some cases, it is less about the number of premises than about the way their impact is managed/not managed. EG

- continuing to served people alcohol who have clearly already over-indulged;
- encouraging over-consumption [pitchers rather than pints, cocktails with multiple shots of several spirits, etc];
- business bins on pavements;
- business bins overflowing;
- inadequate management of waste;
- serving alcohol in glasses for those not drinking inside a premises;
- permitting raucous behaviour;

- letting customers congregate and overspill into public areas etc.

There is all the urinating, harassment, hate crime etc that accompanies large numbers of people all in a relatively small space.

It was a great pity that this part of the city was written off by the council as a drinking area. Park St was the jewel in Bristol's crown but sacrificed as well, as was Queens Rd. One good thing about the pandemic was that the intensity of drinking and drinking establishments lessened. I do hope you will keep it lessened and not try to increase it. It greatly degraded the neighbourhood which originally was a lovely area full of bookshops, the University, the Museum and Art Gallery, and churches.

This should be expanded to cover a wider area as the city centre expands with new housing being built around the temple quay area and beyond. We should be encouraging family oriented and socially responsible activities. Not antisocial late night polluting activities like clubs and bars and associated noise pollution. Such venues, particularly late night are a blight on the city and cause horrible harms to residents who can barely sleep.

It would be great if there were valid options for protection for residents in the cases of moving people along or preventing large crowds of loud noise gathering outside homes. Sleep deprivation takes a real toll on residents who owned their homes before these venues even existed and are now stuck in a situation with all of the noise but also can't easily move properties.

The bearpit area of the CIA always seems to be a less good place to be in late evening - Bond street by the bus stops has an empty presence - as does the back of the premier toward the bus station. It's a safety concern. The flower boxes are attractive on the central reservation but for the pedestrian - hmm.

The provision in the city centre is very discriminatory. Many of the venues that I might want to visit are too noisy, open too late and close too late (it is hard to understand who people who work can go clubbing into the early hours and still work). They are not welcoming to older people, definitely not welcoming to hearing impaired (and whilst many of those people may be older, hearing issues are not all age related). It feels ageist, and disablist and discriminates against those who cannot afford a taxi home, for example. I do not advocate the Council funding late night buses but I do advocate encouraging more people to run venues where the night life starts in the evening and pretty much ends in time for people to catch the bus home. The idea that you tank up first then go out to a venue when working people are about to go to bed, then roll home in the early hours of the morning talking and shouting and other anti social behaviour, disturbing the working people, the people with children, etc needs to be reversed. It panders to a particular portion of the City's population and many of those are even exempt from paying Council tax and they are spending money in venues where most of the money leaves the city as the alcohol companies are often not local, they are many of them national or international chains etc. We need a night time economy that values all of us in the city and has an offer that someone from all areas of the city and all ages and abilities can participate in. We definitely do not have that right now and keeping the CIA will at least corral some of the issues that arise from the current night time "offer" but a culture shift is needed. Meanwhile if the only way to lessen the impact of this is to have the CIA then I continue to support the CIA being in place.

Don't allow pure late-night drinking establishments to open close to city center apartments. It's not fair on the business, who'll be hounded if someone takes offense. Instead, preserve the reconsidered 'party' streets like Corn/King Street.

Should be extended to cover Cheltenham Road Montpelier as far as Bath Buildings.

I think blanket rules don't necessarily allow for hospitality to thrive. Most businesses are sensible and law abiding and it's often the few who spoil it for the many. The nighttime economy is hugely important in putting money back in the economy and providing jobs.

Please extend CIA further up past Stokes croft to Bishopston. There's a dangerous drink and drugs aggressive atmosphere spreading into residential areas surrounding Gloucester road. I no longer feel safe on Gloucester road especially on weekend nights. (Others has said the same) One night we went to Bishopston for dinner and a guy who was clearly not from the area approached me trying to sell hard drugs ! 10 years ago Bishopston was never like that.

Keeping outdoor seating licences

The city centre is Bristol's late night entertainment hub and bars, restaurants and nightclubs should be encouraged to open in the city centre. This is the only right place for them and the better the offering the better our late night economy becomes. More choice and welcoming a diverse range of venues means attracting more people to the city centre increasing tourism for Bristol especially for people traveling for live music events, festivals, weekends away and the huge revenue stag and hen groups bring to the city.

Lack of late night public conveniences, citizens are forced to defecate in Parks and on the street.

Generally all about right. There are too many Off licences leading to excessive public drinking and antisocial behaviour not controlled by venues.

The area of Princes Wharf Museum St and Gaol Ferry Steps should now be included in the area as there are increasing incidents of antisocial behaviour and excessive littering in the area due to the number of food and drink outlets supplying consumables for consumption off the premises.

Given the family orientation of the area together with the increasing residential developments mean this is becoming unacceptable and detrimental to peoples enjoyment of the Harbourside and its attractions.

very late night Venues (night clubs) - eg motion may reduce antisocial behaviour as it will reduce a peak of activity between 11pm and 1am. Main issue is with large bars where Alcohol (not music) is the main draw, these lead to drunk people on the street between 10pm and 2 am.

The residents here feel like they are fighting a constant battle to protect this residential area so it is safe and reasonably peaceful - by peaceful I mean local bars closing at hours that mean local residents can get some sleep! It is exhausting trying to protect our environment and when we have attended council hearings on licensing new premises the CIA is often cited as a reason to consider local neighbourhoods - and they are indeed neighbourhoods with a community of people living here. Without the CIA our position will become even more exposed at a time when more people are moving into the city centre. Look at the decline in retail outlets in the city centre. Look at the student housing being developed at Temple Meads. It doesn't make any sense to erode the rights of residents at a time when more residents are moving into the city centre. The council should be trying to create a mixed use environment, fit for families and safe for all. This does not appear to be the direction of travel currently,

This is a mixed residential, retail and entertainment area. The residents need to know that they can access their homes safely and not suffer late night/ early morning nuisance . We don't want any more late night drinking venues even if they are disguised as entertainment eg for golf or bowling.

Think of the people who live in the City Centre please!!!

Please acknowledge that residents in these urban areas require quiet enjoyment without compromise. Opening hours of licenced premises below residential should be specifically restrictive to protect the residents.

I think it works well as it is at present.

Establishments should be encouraged and allowed to have outdoor seating rather than all being confined inside.

Current CIA disregards the residents who have to live with the noise, litter, disruption and anti-social behaviour from people who are brought to our doorsteps. Everything seems to favour the night time economy. Also, since when is a Thursday regarded as a weekend in terms of licensing hours - many people have to get up early for work on a Friday morning. Late openings should be restricted to Friday and Saturday nights only

There are too many bars being opened and staying open late in residential areas. It is imperative the CIA is maintained

Street cleaning early in the day or even overnight in the city centre. Should be pristine! Embarrassing to see the centre so dirty.

Residents must be protected from companies that wish to have superfluous opening times. Applications are often submitted requesting late night music and outdoor seating past 11PM during week nights which is ridiculous. These should be automatically rejected. No further late night alcohol or music venues should be allowed in canon's marsh. This area of the harbourside is residential and must be protected.

The area of my property (Canons Way) is slowly increasing with licensed premises but this was an area that was residential before it was an entertaining area but this is slowly increasing and bringing big problems in doing so. I often go to pubs and bars in the King Street and the area around it and have no issues with this as an entertainment area but these areas were entertaining before residential.

There are a lot of residential flats and not enough shops selling fresh fruit and vegetables and every day household items eg. Hardware shop. The small supermarket Tesco metro on Millennium Parade is often overwhelmed.

City centre CIA allows essential public opinion and feedback
Prevents monopoly of big companies/ franchises

I feel safe walking home when it is late.

Support the NTE that is integral to the vibrancy of the city!

I would be appalled if this were removed. As a resident of Harbourside, the noise, litter and anti-social behaviour is disturbing and we see no action taken to prevent this. We are constantly being barraged for requests to open new bars, change opening hours to remain open into the small hours, opening 'themed' bars as family venues that are drinking establishments. Enough is enough!

Take note from other countries around the world. People in the UK are so fat, unhealthy, loud and trashy relatively speaking. Stop with fast food and have more proper restaurants that are open later. Why do venues stop serving food at like 8 pm here I have no idea. After 8 pm you're limited to fast food.

This can be pubs with food or bars with food.

The solution to creating a city that is vibrant, dense and safe is to encourage street-level commerce, not to over-regulate or sanitise its activities; but to have more police presence as a discouragement to inappropriate behaviour

Greater distances from blocks of flats/ residents. Eg New Moon on the Quay is much too close and annoying to nearby apartments

It should be extended to Clifton once again. Since it was shut down (Why ?) there has been a non-beneficial to residents of extension of licensed and non-licensed premises into the streets with the new road closure of Princess Victoria Street. In addition licences are freely handed to new premises for late night opening with loud music without any consideration of noise external reduction. The licensing authorities go home at 5pm, don't reply to complaints, don't inform residents of what changes are being made. It has become an unregulated free for all. Only the Environmental people are helpful and respond to complaints. The licensing authority are useless. The previous system of regulation involving the Magistrates courts should be brought back.

Too many outlets are claiming to be sports related or serving food when they are predominantly serving alcohol and their marketing and publicity is targeted at drinkers

Ban large groups of stag and hen parties from all drinking and fast food venues

It is important to create a vibrant and welcoming night-time economy in the city. It should be a point of pride. If visitors feel embraced and welcome, they will treat the city with respect. If people are kicked out early and have no option but to hang around off-licenses and fast food places sitting on benches then they will cause a nuisance. The solution is to permit late-opening, inclusive and friendly clubs and pubs where people can enjoy themselves and get food until late at night inside. Better to allow such venues to be clustered together in a focussed area, encourage late opening in this area to stop kick-outs, support the independent venues in the area, and deal with the issues such as litter and bottle collection noise in a focussed way in this area e.g., with under-pavement bins or more frequent collections

It must be remembered just how many people live within this area now.

The CIA city centre needs to be removed to reduce the impact on other areas, in particular the A38 Cheltenham Rd, Gloucester Rd, and Filton Rd.

Cheltenham Rd, Gloucester Rd, and Filton Rd. suffer from anti-social behaviour, violent crime, dangerous driving, pavement parking, football hooligans, cricket hooligans, business owners of bars and restaurants and off-licences have turned Cheltenham Rd, Gloucester Rd, and Filton into a shanty town area, flagrantly breaching planning and building statute laws, that the council are unwilling to enforce.

Please will the members as a group go to Broadquay at 03.00 any Saturday or Sunday morning and see the mess the amount of rubbish and the recourses that are cleaning it up and then ask why and see that we do not need more as a side trip go up park street

Different stories for different areas. The area over the River Frome feels positively dangerous at night and the walkway along Broad Quay past the Watershed doesn't feel safe at all. My main concern is the number of rowdy pubs creeping their way down to the residential area around Hannover Quay. The establishments there now are mostly civilized, Harbour Hub, Broken Dock and BrewDog have mostly civilised clientele but I am worried that the council will approve applications from less salubrious establishments like BSB and Slug and Lettuce closer to the residential areas. For this reason alone, we should keep the CIA in place.

We believe that the CIA should remain as is current for Bristol City Centre and should not be extended anywhere else across the city. With a number of vacant units on most high streets there needs to be more use of these without restrictions - whether that be for a pub/restaurant/event space or other to encourage people back to the high street.

It needs to be extended up Whiteladies Road to the Downs. This is a residential area disturbed by very late night revellers.

This policy may have been viable before the Covid Lockdown, but subsequently the hospitality industry needs all the assistance it can get, and the re-imposition of the CIA would not only impact much needed new openings, but also hinder the existing venues in the City Centre whilst pandering to the NIMBY elements. The Hospitality industry is one of the most significant sectors for the economy, especially in terms of providing regular employment to the younger demographic and the most likely to be at the lower end of the income scale. It also supports a number of Breweries around the City, and the Tourism trade, with many people coming into the City for its lively nightlife and support for the Music industry.

I think there needs to be a new approach to the city centre and that the CIA should be removed. It can be seen as a blocker for new openings, timely and costly. We should be using this opportunity to develop a vision for the city centre, and to be actively encouraging new openings to further develop the offering and support the recovery of the city centre. I would welcome the opportunity to further explore this conversation.

As a resident raising a family, I'm very concerned about changes to the area that would add unnecessary venues focused around alcohol, music and food when there are so many suitable venues already available. Nothing needs to be open later and don't do a bait and switch. Developing residential and then resining and changing areas is unfair and there are so many options to make the city centre more family oriented and inclusive, with some creativity. Please consider this before and the impact on the people who actually live in these locations.

3.11 When deciding to use the city centre for a night out, how important are each of the following to you?

It's got a choice for everyone

This a difficult question to answer. Feeling safe is very important but I don't feel safe in the city centre, and where are the police?

I avoid areas that have obvious high levels of street robbery and theft from vehicles.

It's important that town centre venues meet high satisfactory health and safety standards for food hygiene, toilet hygiene and overall cleanliness. Unfortunately many older food and alcohol premises in the city fall short on hygiene standards relating to toilets eg. automatic hands free taps, soap dispensers and paper towel dispensers and warm air hand dryers that actually work.

Public transport is horrendous in the city centre. Cars are penalised but there are no clear options other than an expensive taxi. You can't cycle in as bikes are consistently stolen. Why are there no enclosed bike areas like in other cities? We don't even have a tram service.....The only option is to walk if you are near enough.

Good street lighting is very important

The 'city centre' is a huge area so it is difficult to answer this question. There are parts of it I would never go near at night / on weekends - namely, Harbourside, Corn Street because there tends to be large groups of drunk men or stag/hen dos.

I enjoy going to live gigs, pubs, bars, nightclubs and cultural events - aside from pubs, the vast majority of these types of venues or events happen in the 'City Centre' so that's why I decide to use the city centre. The things I want to do and see are there. My friends are also there.

Venue not too crowded or loud. Able to chat with friends.

If driving having access to parking

There is a distinct lack of venues for those who don't want to consume large amounts of alcohol or dance/35+ age group.

Sadly, several of the things above are not on offer - especially,

- a. taxis that are willing to take a wheelchair customer - regardless of their licence conditions;
- b. buses that many wheelchair users can get on.

Expected queues

The area needs to be safe, clean and welcoming. This is becoming further and further from the truth.

Curtailed/unreliable bus services are a real impact to people making the best use of the CIA between 6:30 and 11:30 of an evening. If BCC want a thriving economy then look at how difficult it is for people in say Hanham village to get the 45 home after a meal out. there are reduced and cancelled bus services, leaving single women having to walk from either the 43 or possibly if lucky the 44 from either end of the high street. It must also be the same for many areas and Bristol isn't really that big it's a small city and area.

We avoid the areas where there will be lots of men congregating and shouting particularly at women walking past. Lack of public toilets for women yet having to experience the vile plastic on street pissoirs you put up for men. We are more likely to not go into town on a Friday or Saturday to avoid the range of unpleasant behaviours that are even more excessive on those evenings (and Wednesday nights during term time).

Somewhere with nice food and a mix of ages

The layout of the city centre has never been worse. This puts me off visiting the city centre because it's so hard to access now. Also CAZ this puts off many people visiting the city centre. If you can access it and find somewhere to park you are looking at the best part of £20 before you've even eaten or had a drink!

Feeling safe!

I have a flat in the CIA so these questions do not apply and don't acknowledge residents also live in the area

That CCTV is being scrutinised on all evenings throughout each night and police and security can attend quickly.

I live here so it's my neighbourhood and I resent it being defaced or treated disrespectfully by 'outsiders'.

Restricting late night drinking venues which result in nuisance behaviour and noise disturbance near residential areas where families also live , with children.

Higher quality eateries should be on the centre itself.

The area is a good area for socialising in normal hours it's after the pubs close when the problems start. The venues should have incremental closing to avoid everybody leaving at the same time.

Night out venues have no need to be 'family friendly'

If venue 1 isn't great, is venue 2 close-by? Are there other options, including decent food, close by? Open late?

The above is a wish0list rather than a picture of actual experience. For example, the area does not feel sufficiently safe and public transport should be improved.

Women walking home must feel safe

Public transportation provision in Bristol is completely woeful too infrequent too unreliable and too expensive makes the City Centre inaccessible for too many

I do not think it is family friendly. We virtually do not use the city centre because of that. It is primarily for those who like to drink, dance and make a lot of noise. I can't remember the last time I saw a policeman on foot. Some of the above are important considerations - but it does not feel family friendly, public transport is not especially convenient, it does not always feel particularly safe, etc

Cheltenham Rd, Gloucester Rd, and Filton Rd.attracts several thousand people, yet there is little or no police presence, several bars and pubs on Gloucester Rd are known for drug use and the police do nothing.it is unlikely an arrest has ever been made at the Gloden Lion yet every street drug available is either being taken or being sold, the same for the Hookha bars. Cocaine use is a particular problem as the users are public sector employed or well-off middle class, people the police will not arrest or confront for anti-social behaviour.

Sometimes there seem a large number of large parties like Stag nights or Hen nights which can be a bit much.

3.12.17 Something else (please describe below)

It's scruffy and full of drunks and loutish behaviour.

It's generally depressing - filthy and litter strewn. Covered in vomit and urine.pretty lawless and intimidating.

A trip into the city centre at night should be a pleasurable experience for the whole family and shouldn't be spoilt by people who are drunk or using threatening and abusive behaviour, being accosted by beggars or seeing so many homeless people on the streets or sleeping in doorways.

Crowds

No AMENITIES THAT I AM INTERESTED IN.

Regarding types of venue, it is sometimes less about the type of premises than about the target customer group.

Young people need to be provided for but so do other age groups. Indeed, it is likely that the more provision there is that is there for all age groups the better the atmosphere will get.

Can I get a similar experience closer to home?

It is impossible to visit the city centre without being approached by beggars who often appear animated and or passive aggressive or actually aggressive. It's very disconcerting.

Presence of door staff on venues (family friendly pubs etc.) that are very unlikely to see any issues but it does indicate to me that there might be issues, so will go elsewhere other than city centre. Also know that by having door staff the cost of drinks, food etc. will be higher than those venues not required to have door staff

As an older person, Drink, Dance, Being seen all night is not my modus operandi any more - its more places where you can hear and be heard for a conversation. So restaurants to meet people are good but again the dang unreliable public transport for friends to get home becomes an issue and the cost for a taxi fare can exceed £20!

I don't really get whether these questions are asking about what you consider or what the situation currently is. It is worded very strangely so hard to know how to answer it.

Fear of being beaten up or pushed off the pavements at night especially Stokes croft and Gloucester road. Its not a friendly place at weekends unless you're 20 and high/drunk/loud/balsy Alterations to Bristol Old Vic and to the Colston Hall (i.e. prior to current renovations) gave me problems of accessibility. I can only use the stalls in the Old Vic because of the balcony style access to the cheaper areas, (and a friend cannot use the stalls because of claustrophobia. St Georges Hall, Hippodrome & Colston Hall over amplify.

The CAZ deters me from accessing the city centre. The city centre being horrendous to access by car puts me off. Lack of parking puts me off visiting. The lack of disabled access for anyone with a disability who can't get a taxi to and from venues because everything is pedestrianised puts me off visiting the centre. The city centre should be much easier to access and welcoming to people.

I live here so I don't have any choice.

Being out after 9pm as a single elderly woman

Lack of variety.

When I visit the city centre I try and leave before the late night venues close because that's when problems arise.

Cost is a big one. How to get home is another big one (why the hell do Vois stop at midnight). Otherwise, the prospect of being crammed in a small venue (because there aren't enough venues in the city centre) full of trashy loud inconsiderate renegades is a deterrent

Inadequate policing and security

The 'good' restaurants (bars, etc) are booked out weeks in advance, making it difficult to go out at short notice, and some places become offputtingly overcrowded. This shows that demand exceeds supply and there must be something else inhibiting new 'good' businesses from establishing successfully. Late night transport is also poor, with hour-long waits for Uber being typical and no good public transport options. If a late-night train ran on the clifton down line it would be good, or night busses frequent enough to avoid a long waiting time. People want to go out and spend money supporting the Bristol economy - it just needs to be made a bit easier.

The city centre is for those who use buses or the dreadful scooters by day and for those who like to drink by night. It is not a welcoming place.

Too many venues have closed because of high rents and business taxes. This has caused poor quality of life for the higher residential areas on or near to Cheltenham Rd, Gloucester Rd, and Filton Rd..It has not gone unnoticed that the council seeks to appease the Bristol Society of Merchant Venturers by allowing the venturers to convert office blocks into student accommodation, the city centre is know a student campus AND A MONEY MAKING SCHEME FOR THE MERCHANT VENTURERS WHO WEEDLED MONEY FROM THE COUNCIL TAX PAYING CITIZENS. The citizens of Bristol no longer have a city centre . Cheltenham Rd, Gloucester Rd, and Filton Rd.is rapidly being overwhelmed as the city centre no longer provides the venues it use to.

Too many bars opening in a once family friendly area and parents deciding not to use for this reason

This question was very confusing. I have no idea what you are asking.

3.15.14 Other issues (please describe below)

Too many students dominating too many aras in Bristol with no vested interest in our communities

It's like the Wild West or a distopian movie.

Noise and litter from patrons of Miss Millie's in the early hours of the morning, which the manager says he can do nothing about Traffic. Pavement parking. Voi scooters on pavement.

Im now terrified of going in parks here as its become so aggressive. Im afraid to eat out on weekends in this area. So many people getting drunk and taking drugs. Shouting in residential streets after dark as they walk back to Montpelier train station. Tuesday night last night after midnight a group of young men shouting and screaming as they left Stokes croft and walked up to Montpelier train station stopping off in the park on their way to shout and fight each other. Montpelier park is a mecca for people taking MDMA and drinking all night in summer months. They dont care less how loud they are or how late it is.

Hookah bars are a particular problem regarding county lines drug dealers, other hookah bar patrons use Gloucester rd as a drag strip, speeding cars with modified exhausts and ignition control daily/hourly speed with exhaust noise simulating sub-machine guns. Immigration control need to do more as many bars and barbers, fruit shops have a very high turnover of staff.

3.15.15 Please explain why the problems you selected above are an issue on Gloucester Road?

Although there are a few good pubs around gloucester road, it is also surrounded by residential buildings so can cause problems to people living nearby.

Pavements are so crowded with these people you have to walk in the road. They are so self absorbed with chatting to each other, spending, drinking. Character of Gloucester Road is being dominated by eateries/bars which in turn are dominated by these younger people. So many areas in Bristol have become bland & the same due to this- there is no longer a reason to go to these areas. The pleasure & enjoyment in the area have gone.

Lakota, and take a walk and have a look at the mess and behaviours.

Because it makes living near it a nightmare.

Too many bars and pubs, all open too late with little respect for the residents. Restaurants are mainly takeaways; it seems designed to attract students rather than mature people

This area is attracting very rowdy crowd of drunk revellers

Too many pubs & alcohol sales.

All of the food outlets and bars have bins on the streets that are frequently overflowing. There are frequently large groups of loud people and the proximity to homes of the bars and restaurants makes a very noisy living environment at night.

Like the city center, it's becoming more gentrified. There are too many late-night establishments in close proximity to homes.

I think the answers are self-explanatory

Its aggressive. If i walk there on a Saturday night i get angry looks from drunk people and pushed out the way. Ive been approached by drug dealers in Bishopston. Ive been verbally attacked by people in Montpelier park if you ask them to keep the noise down at night. It never used to be like this 20 years ago. Ive been attacked in a shop on Gloucester road on a Saturday evening by people buying alcohol. This area is growing more and more into a free for all for people to get drunk and get high and get aggressive. Years ago it was just a few bars and house parties with a few people smoking weed but now its just frightening. More and more people come here to party and get drunk.

not enough bins available more pedestrian crossings are needed

Gloucester road seems to have become very popular last few years and when bristol rovers are at home playing i imagine it is even busier and at risk of more problems arising unless they move their football ground! Which i think may be under discussion issue is on the high concentrations of bars and fast-food near arches, litter and antisocial behaviour. North of Berkeley road not so much of an issue.

Drug users and aggressive begging around turbo island area.

Gloucs Rd is busier at times than the City Centre. It has the same risks, but in a narrower, more strung-out area. Risk of crime is greater there, I think Rouge landlords are rouges as they rent and lease properties that blatantly flout planning and building regulation control. LONA BAR is a leading example, the council have allowed the frontage to be used for outside events, the patrons park on local residents' property, on pavements that are permanently covered with litter from LONA, THE LITTER HAS LONA PRINTED UPON IT. Sydney at Eden is another bar that flouts statute law, the residents had to petition the landlady as the council refused or was incapable of implementing statute law. Every illegal drug is available and consumed at the Golden Lion. There is also the problem with the county ground and football ground and the high volume of visitors, litter, urinating, defecating, parking, noise, vandalism, stabbings, violent fights, speeding cars, foodie scooters, drug litter are at high levels, the police just drive up and down, some business properties are owned ex-police and another public sector employees who seem adamant on lowering the value of the area seeking to capitalise on buying property that no one is willing to live in as a resident. Gloucester rd is in a state of demise and it's down to profiteering by dishonourable entrapments.

Fall out from sporting events and proximity to residential areas

Litter and anti social behaviour, particularly when Rovers at home.

Noticeable issues when visiting area or travelling through area.

Too many drinking places

3.16.14 Other issues (please describe below)

Concern that a lack of CIA will permit opening of off-licences etc. that will have a negative impact on the perception and consumption of alcohol in young people (as many young people reside near Whiteladies due to the University), with potential for long-term negative health consequences

Begging and homeless people

Again, too many anti-socially drunk people

People using the premises do not seem to realise how residential the area is. Metaxi Mas have frequently ignored their licence conditions and played very loud music impacting badly on local residents.

Too many students and Bristol university making this worse by admitting far too many students without adequate numbers of student halls

Car racing up and down Whiteladies late at night

3.16.15 Please explain why the problems you selected above are an issue on Whiteladies Road?

Too many ofg the same kind of establishments catering . No cultural attractions whatsoever

As above

Makes it an undesirable destination.

Many young people live on/near Whiteladies Road

Attracts rowdy drunken partygoers

Area like so many others needs to be managed for the longer safety of all its inhabitants.

Problems exacerbated at times with this university students. Many people live close by.

It is less of an issue than the city centre or Gloucester Road, but there are concentrations of licenced premises and the bins and littering and noise problems. Having a CIA in place before it gets out of hand will prevent it from getting out of hand. Also there are a number of premises not on Whiteladies Road, eg Cotham Hill, so keeping it controlled now will make it easier for the future. It is more a term time issue in this area.

again, self-explanatory

A significant number of premises are now being turned into Bars, or fast food restaurants with the associated issues late at night of this. Sure to the adjacency of housing to Whiteladies this is a problem, and also for the large number of people who wish to use our transit the area. The CIA is needed to keep the mix and balance of units appropriate within the conservation area.

Whiteladies road has always been quite a popular area to eat and drink. Also closer to students halls of residence up the downs

Because people come to the area from miles around.

Because residential property is so intimately mixed with alcohol/music venues.

Student area: lots of young women about attracts unsavoury characters

Students numbers and vast numbers houses of multiple occupancy are a major issue completely changed the character of the area for the worse

So many places to eat and drink - but I don't think it's as bad as it used to be so maybe I shouldn't have listed it. We do come here to eat from time to time without any problems. As you move further away from the Triangle it is less of a problem but up to the junction with Cotham Hill, we would not go there of an evening.

Proximity to residential areas and student transit back to halls of residence

Just too many students on the streets.

There is so much noise throughout the night from drunken revellers in the street and racing cars

Too busy at night and too much drinking

3.17.14 Other issues (please describe below)

Slamming car doors and revving up loudly at night as well as shouted farewells This is in Clifton Village. The Triangle area has the problems of the city centre.

Too many students

3.17.15 Please explain why the problems you selected above are an issue in Clifton?

As above

It's making it an unattractive destination for a night out.

For the well being of the community noise pollution in unsociable hours has to be reduced.

See above

It has residential properties very close to all the licenced properties and residents should be able to expect to have a quiet area after closing time.

See previous response. Once granted there is no check carried out by the licencing authority that the conditions granted are being obeyed. No mechanism exists they go home at 5 pm yet grant freely licences beyond midnight to almost anyone. The don't respond to the public in any way and regarding 20 The Mall the licence conditions are still not on public view over a year after granting the application. Utterly pathetic. Councillors granting licences in public meetings always side with the applicant. They are unconcerned that Clifton is largely a residential area unlike the City Centre.

Too many students and HMO

Too many students

Anything deterring visitors is a problem to maintaining the character and appeal of the area.

3.18.14 Other issues (please describe below)

The Clove in Luckwell Road blocks the pavement with a commercial bin. Oowie sometimes has major problem with litter.

3.18.15 Please explain why the problems you selected above are an issue in Bedminster and Southville?

See above

Because they make walking within 15 mins of North Street difficult or unpleasant for older people like me or mothers with a buggy. To be fair bags of dog poo just left on the pavement are discouraging too.

3.19.14 Other issues (please describe below)

Whilst these are not big issues now, the area is about to undergo significant redevelopment and I feel it is important to prevent the area becoming a problem, by being thoughtful about what times of development take place.

Broadmead is a run down disgrace with so many empty and boarded up shops like an unwelcoming ghetto

3.19.15 Please explain why the problems you selected above are an issue in Broadmead and Cabot?

Every time I visit Broadmead and Cabot's I am always very weary of some very interesting people who act suspiciously.

Broadmead and Cabot is very close to city centre and new student accommodation and other housing is being built so it will get busier in that area

It's an area I need to visit, but spend as little time there as possible after dark

Lots of anti-social behaviour around the Harbourside. I tried to intervene once and was threatened - where are the Police when you need them? They may be lesser crimes but still scary.

Litter after a fine evening by the water has to be seen to be believed.
Noise is unbearable until the early hours

Empty shops poor lighting no police all make it a magnet for underage outdoor drinking and drug taking not a pleasant place to be in the day and somewhere to AVOID in the evenings

I live in the area and see and experience these areas listed regularly.

3.20.15 Please explain why the problems you selected above are an issue in Whapping Wharf and Spike Island

We had to move because of these issues; living there was affecting our health and wellbeing.

Warm evening when people congregate at this side of the Harbour particularly if there is an event in the Arena. Large amounts of litter is just abandoned.

The birds help spread and exploited over loaded litter bins. Drunk abusive behaviour make it unpleasant for families and large amounts of vandalism occurs ie the barriers are moved pushed in the water etc Various items are climbed on and used as seats etc ie the Cranes the Train the Tables and walls in Museum Sq the landing for the Mathew and other boats along the quay wall. Currently the Unicorn and in the past the Mars house.

This area has undergone a huge change recently and is visited by many new people. The residents area must be protected from too many visitors.

Whapping Wharf is tightly packed at weekends. Lots of food, lots of litter

3.21.14 Other issues (please describe below)

There are HMOs in this area that are appallingly managed. Antisocial from these alone has increased massively and regularly drugs are being dealt and used behind the wall on corner of st Philips Road by people who live in the HMOS on Horton (nos 3,4,5) street. There are many many clubs around this area that cause almost a constant level of noise pollution late at night and early hours, also passing people traffic drinking in street shouting fighting etc. particularly Dare2 Club on Alfred street is rife with drugs and antisocial behaviour and all night raves destroying life for residents. Bass can be heard from this club all the way up on Troopers Hill.

3.21.15 Please explain why the problems you selected above are an issue in St Philips Marsh?

Too many spill over clubs from center. Too many HMOs housing people with drugs problems and social housing with residents with similar issues. This combined with unacceptable amounts of clubs also attracting and creating antisocial behaviour is crying out for a cia in this area. Particularly as thousands of new homes set to be built in short and medium term.

3.22.14 Other issues (please describe below)

Too much addiction which the range of alcohol supplies in the area simply encourage. There should be more remedial services in the area

3.22.15 Please explain why the problems you selected above are an issue in Old Market?

The area is currently challenging to feel safe on and an increase in authorities presence would be beneficial

Waste is an issue In Old market. Lots of venues with waste bins on street. Often litter all over the place. This affects surrounding areas too. Generally bars and clubs here are better managed than the rogue ones such as Dare 2 and others in st Philips. Sill too many venues with late night outdoor music that pollutes area all day and night and residents cannot sleep.

Not all bus routes from Old Market run late for people to use public transport to get home (buses 6, 7 and 36)

Music and venues around Old market are great but area feels unsafe

Old market I feel is strange. It has a lot of venues, bars, stores open til late (where all the crackheads are), all really close to residential buildings. The music and general noise, including vibrations from bass, can really affect people trying to sleep or chill proximity to residential areas and an area of long term regeneration

3.23.14 Other issues (please describe below)

People standing outside off-licences, or sitting in bus shelters, drinking and leaving litter. The situation has been made worse since several public litter bins were removed 3.23.15 Please explain why the problems you selected above are an issue in the Church Road area?

This is an ongoing problem which has been reported for many years, particularly in those premises which have off sales of alcohol only.

There is also a major issue with fly-tipping near commercial waste bins which are left in side streets off of Church Road, particularly Jane Street, Edward Street and Victoria Parade.

3.24.14 Other issues (please describe below)

I lived in Claremont St for 30 years and my parents continued there for some time after. When my father died we had my mother live with us because of how unsafe that whole area has become. It is a dangerous place.

3.24.15 Please explain why the problems you selected above are an issue on Stapleton Road, Easton?

There is rubbish everywhere. Load bass often at night. People drunk and using drugs at all times. Antisocial behaviour. Nearly all the shops are off licences, gambling, or unhealthy fast food.

It is not a safe place to be at night. I would possibly still go there as we know people there still but many of my friends, my husband included, would not get out of the car on Stapleton Road. The worst part is from Claremont St to Trinity Road. Most of our old neighbours moved out. They regularly had people knock on the door saying that they would have to sell to them sooner or later, etc. It used to be a street with a fantastic selection of shops, rather like Gloucester Road today, although not the restaurants.

A lot of noisy groups gathered in the street

3.25.15 Please explain why the problems you selected above are an issue in the Fishponds Road Area?

Too many fast food places and not much restaurants or culture. Anti social behaviour

3.26.14 Other issues (please describe below)

I did not say a CIA is needed in other areas

My comments relate more to an imbalance that sees:

- too many fast food premises and the smell and litter they create;
- too much public alcohol consumption;
- cafes/restaurants that are very unwelcoming for women;
- harassment;
- people congregating on the street outside premises, especially men, making women feel out of place/having difficulty walking along the street.

None of these are a problem along the whole of Stapleton Rd, but many of the above apply to different parts of it.

Drunks lying in entrances. Drunks having to be refused service in local shops.

Cotham Hill noise issues have increased massively since the 'pedestrianisation'. For example, Bravas has installed bifold windows and a great deal of outdoor seating, and plays music pretty loudly from morning to late night. This road is very residential--how are the people living over the shops and nearby meant to do normal activities (like working from home and getting children to bed before school, and getting adequate sleep themselves) with this racket going on? There are even sometimes buskers playing past 11 pm. The problems of noise and people spilling out onto the streets, and (very frequently) blocking the pavement, sometimes unwilling to move to let locals through, have become greatly exacerbated.

Never seen a drug raid at Sydbey at Eden or the Golden Lion or The Sportsman, yet all drugs are available or being taken.

3.26.15 Please explain why the problems you selected above are an issue in the other areas you selected

I spend an hour or so each week picking up litter in the neighbourhood. A significant chunk is takeaway debris from local takeaway restaurants and skiffs from the Kingsdown Vaults. The KV under the new management have planted their commercial bins on the pavement the opposite side of the road from them. They attract litter and flytipping they don't clear. Their frequent music evenings are amped to a level it can be heard through double glazing 100 metres away. Their customers are unneighbourly noisy, drinking on the pavement. A complete contrast to how the pub and venue was run under the previous management.

this survey did not allow for why I have the view that the 1 CIA is a good thing so I made the best use of the forms as I could Traders have made a huge effort to raise the standard of their offer. And because i live locally, I don't want to see the problems of East Street spread.

It is the unusually close mix of residential and commercial property that is the problem. In our view, the Council should not have permitted this huge increase in noise and outside use (apart from just around the Covid period) where it had previously permitted residential development. The two are not compatible. Residents' need for quiet, especially during normal sleep hours, should surely always trump small gains in commercial viability.

These are always problems in areas where people live. Nobody wants to restrict people enjoying themselves but this should be better contained.

No council enforcement of planning laws or building regulations, the buildings used for bars, cafes, restaurants, nail bars, fruit and veg do not conform to the statute laws for noise control, the laws already exist, and we need a council to enforce the laws and regulations. against past public sector workers who are now landlords or business entrepreneurs.
